[Selected]I am a bold general as Seminole,

of the Pioneers that I have seen,
the fish to richer set.

My head is set—I will vote, you be,

For all the gold-bug crew,

I can't tell you what I know,

At the convention by the lake,

So now to the Hoosier town I'll go

And a Gold-Bug ticket make;

We'll all be good—no command—

No, we'll all be taken—

Well on McKinley's platform stand,

And with the Red well "shook!"

There we will tell the people all

That England rules the world.

Then I'll call to her to call,

And let her rob our life;

That bonds are just the thing for us

In plowing thoes of poverty.

That the nation's "honor" is at stake—

And all his honor's gone.

That the nation's "honor" is at stake—

That wealth must not be taxed;

That producers must not be taxed;

And we'll hear no questions "why,"

That the nation's "honor" is at stake—
